Games To-day, Scranton at Richmond. Wilkesharre at Paterson. Newark at Heading. Lanuaster at Allentown.

Scranton, one of the new Atlantic League teams, put up one of the best games seen here this season, and it was not until the ninth liming that the thousand faithful allowed themselves to settle down into their natural state.

For eight famings the game was nip and tuck with neither side to the good, and it looked very much like an endless chain, so regularly did three men go up and then go down again.

There was plenty of excitement, and a number of bridiant plays, and Rooters Row got beyond itself upon several oc-

Both teams took their medicine regularly without a murmur, except upon one occasion, when Captain O'Conneil, of the visiting team, got into a dispute with Umpire Berger over a trivial inacident. This little talk was nipped in the bud, however, by Manager Marty Smith, or "Smarty Mith." as some one in the flow.

"Smarty Mith." as some one in the Row, surgested, before any damage was done, and the game proceeded. Scranton got almost as much applause as was given the Cherubs, and they de-served it, too, for a more gentlemanly set They played well, too, and earnestly, and it seemed a shame to take victory

But the Cherubs had to have that game to get back to the top sgain, and when Otis Thompson' machine ticked the news that victory perched upon the Paterson team with Wilkestarre the vanguished. renewed efforts were made, and victory come with the top round on the ladder an error was made on either side, And there were few strike-outs, Donovan getting just one the best of Keenan. Keenan looks like a weary phenomenon, but the way he was bombarded with batted balls one would think him a Spanish soldier before Shafter's men. One would think so, but for one thing, and that was the manner in which he hundled that halls when they were sent in his think so, but for one thing, and that was the manner in which he handled those balls when they were sent in his direction, for he had five assists and one putout to his credit as a fielder. And he is some shakes of a pitcher, too.

Donovan is a pitcher that makes everybody nervous. He sets them all to guessing and no one is left in condition to draw a long breath until the last man is out. New you have him and now you haven't. Now he is as wild as a Spanish buil and now he is as steady as the fire from an American ship. In fact, he is so wild at times be has won the southfluet of "Wild Bill" by the denigens of Recters Row, and honceforth he shall be known as Wild Bill. Wild Bill is a dangerous man to fool

Wild Bill is a dangerous man to fool with, however, as his name would imply, and the visiting aggregation from the North want to steer clear of his hillows.

North want to steer clear of his billows and down shoots.

Scranton, by superior playing, had the game to the seventh inning for in the fourth O'Connell reached his first after one man had been put out, and scored on O'Neill's two-base hit, after two men had been put out, one of them on strikes. They couldn't do the trick again, although they came near it in the seventh. Two they came near it in the seventh. Two men had been sent back to their seats, when raillon was given his base on balls; he stole second and tried to make home mentary heroes.

Other heroes have in sight in the ninth.
Donovan went out: Weigler hit for two bases, and Shannon got four bad balls; then Dolan got even with himself for striking out in the seventh, and hit for two bases, scoring Wrigey, and putting
